What is One Book, One College?

One Book, One College (OBOC) is a year-long, interdisciplinary program engaging the college community through the reading and discussion of a shared book. The program aims to promote literacy and build a community of educated and empowered readers.

Campus events including book discussions, film screenings, and panel discussions, will be organized for the Spring 2018 common reading, Half the Sky: Turning Oppression into Opportunity for Women Worldwide (2010), by Nicholas D. Kristof and Sheryl WuDunn.
OBOC Calendar of Events for Spring 2018

- Book Discussion on Tuesday, March 6th in E3-470 from 12:30-1:30 pm. Join us for a discussion of our common read, Half the Sky: Turning Oppression Into Opportunity for Women Worldwide. This event, for faculty and staff of the English Department, will be facilitated by our very own Diane Mannone and John Rude. Join us for a stimulating discussion of the issues raised in the book.

- Panel Discussion on Thursday, March 22nd in the Multipurpose Room from 12:00-2:00pm. Please consider sending your students to our panel discussion, organized in conjunction with the Women and Gender Studies Department. This event will be moderated by Barbara Dunsheath (panelists TBA).

- April (date and location TBA): Please consider sending your students to our panel discussion, organized in conjunction with SAAVE (Sexual Assault Awareness and Violence Education).

- Film Screening on Tuesday, April 10 in the Modern Language Lab from 12:15-1:15pm. 1-Hour Film Screening and Q&A for Students at ELAC.
